in 1972 George Price extended his general variation-selection equation to allow for multi-level selection.

Smith said state police will play a major role in monitoring the database -- called MethCheck on the law enforcement side -- keeping the information in the system for the record.

Needless to say that Daynight was pretty messed up.