Some of the least understood environmental influences on timing of puberty are social and psychological.